

RANGER

Here it is! YOUR RANGER for 1938.
We hope that you find it to be a picture of NORTHWESTERN as you will want to remember it.

John W. D. Smith The Editor.

The Castle On the Hill

*You have written your name in history,
Oh! Northwestern!
You've engraved it deep upon the scrolls of fame.
We have linked our lives with yours—
Oh! Northwestern!
Our achievements add a luster to your name.*

*We'll write your name upon the archives of distinction.
Ambition and achievement e'er will be our aim.
We will write your name with reverence,
Oh! Northwestern!
Our achievements will but glorify the same.*

*So—then stand ye sons and daughters of Old Northwestern!
Take off your hats to the men upon the field!
They will fight tonight for Old Northwestern
And for the honor of the Castle
on the Hill!
So—then stand all ye sons of Old
Northwestern!
Paying tribute to the men who never yield.
They will win tonight for Old
Northwestern,
And for the glory of the Castle
on the Hill!*

In Commemoration:

Even in a world of gaiety there are times when the happiest turn aside and reverently recall memories of those who have gone on.

So, without tears or remorse, we write these lines in fond remembrance of Professor Ulysses J. Griffith, for twenty-four years head of the Department of English at Northwestern.

His well lived life ended on January 22, 1938.

There's Something About Your Alma Mater . . .

The mid August sun rose hard and sharp, shattering the slightly cool morning air and leaving a hollow, flat sensation around the diaphragm of a sleeping youth.

Not hungrily he dressed and downed a cold glass of milk, then, with a long summer day before him he puttered about the house—glancing at the papers, checking over the latest magazines. He even moved the marker of a novel over one chapter. But that was not enough. He was lonesome and that constant glittering summer sun didn't help matters.

All day he moved from one place to another like a tumbleweed rolling listlessly from one side of a small garden patch to the other. He needed room!

The crash of the hard sun into the western hills seemingly inspired the fellow. Getting dad's keys he jumped into the family gas-wagon. Now 40, now 30, and then 60 and 70 as he struck the highway. The clock on the dash crept over to ten o'clock and a beacon flashed against the wind-shield.

Ah! Against the star-lit sky stood the Halls of Northwestern nestling back into the brow of the darkened campus, softened with shrubs and trees. There was stolid Jesse Dunn, the tower of Herod hall, Wyatt gym, Old Science, the tennis courts, and Horace Mann building. Yea, just as he had left them in May. A turn around the square and a quick drop-in to see who was at the Ark.

Slowly, methodically, he wheeled homeward. Reassured, satisfied. The next morning the sun wasn't so harsh, nor the day so long.

NOAH BUILT THE FIRST ONE

By Ross Strader

"Meetcha 'tha Ark?" he ventured.

"Oke, 'bout nine," she murmured demurely as they parted for an evening meal or for countless reasons why people should part and then meet one another at the old campus hangout 'bout nine in the evening.

Don't look for Ripley's by-line but actually, there are a few students who've never been inside the Ark. No sir! Their mothers won't let them go inside—but then, there are some men students who live there. True, they leave to take their girls home, but if they linger on the front steps awhile they can come back for an early breakfast.

To a pretty little freshman co-ed from Podunk, the Ark is a symbol of the college bright-lights, and it lures her away from her readin' and writin'—they don't teach arithmetic to first year co-eds here—and it's a place where those gay college fellows loaf, who might—well, they might notice her.

To a seasoned collegiate imbiber of the pint, the Ark is just a place to stagger in and out of. A place where there is music, a friendly spirit, and a jovial atmosphere. A place where he is unmolested and can sober up with—well, with whatever people use to sober up.

But to the masses, that upper ninety some per cent, the Ark is a place where you go to see who's there, and where whoever's there is there to see who's there, who's there to——

It's a place with a swell manager and operated by a swell bunch of students. A place that will always remain in the memory of every Northwestern student. A place of color, and of friends.

So clinking your coke glass with mine, "Here's to the Ark."

HOMECOMING...

SPORTS

BASKETBALL

Conference champs three times and runner up a fourth year is the record hung up by the five graduating Rangers who played their last basketball game for Northwestern in 1938. The Rangers, sparked by Ensminger, Newsom, and Mitchell won top honors in the collegiate conference in 1935 and 1936 and tied for second place in 1937.

In 1938 by virtue of winning twelve games and losing only two they became co-champions with the Central Bronchos. Three Rangers, Ensminger, Newsom and Mitchell were placed on the mythical all-conference team and Ensminger was named center on the all-state team.

The Rangers closed the basketball season with a two weeks' trip to Mexico City where they played a five game series with championship Mexican teams. They won three out of five of these tilts.

ACTION

"By virtue of their scoreless tie with the Oklahoma Baptist last Friday afternoon, the Rangers finished the 1937 football season in a tie for third place with Northeastern Redmen in the Oklahoma Collegiate Conference, winning two, losing two, and playing two scoreless ties," reads a sports story last November 23, 1937, as the Rangers tucked away their football uniforms at the end of the '37-'38 season.

In the above photos you see the Rangers in action on Newby field as they "held that line," and kept Northwestern in the limelight with heavy pigskin scores, and finished in the upper division of the Oklahoma Collegiate Conference.

The select organization, known as the "N" Club, is composed entirely of boys who have lettered at least one year in some sport on the Northwestern athletic program.

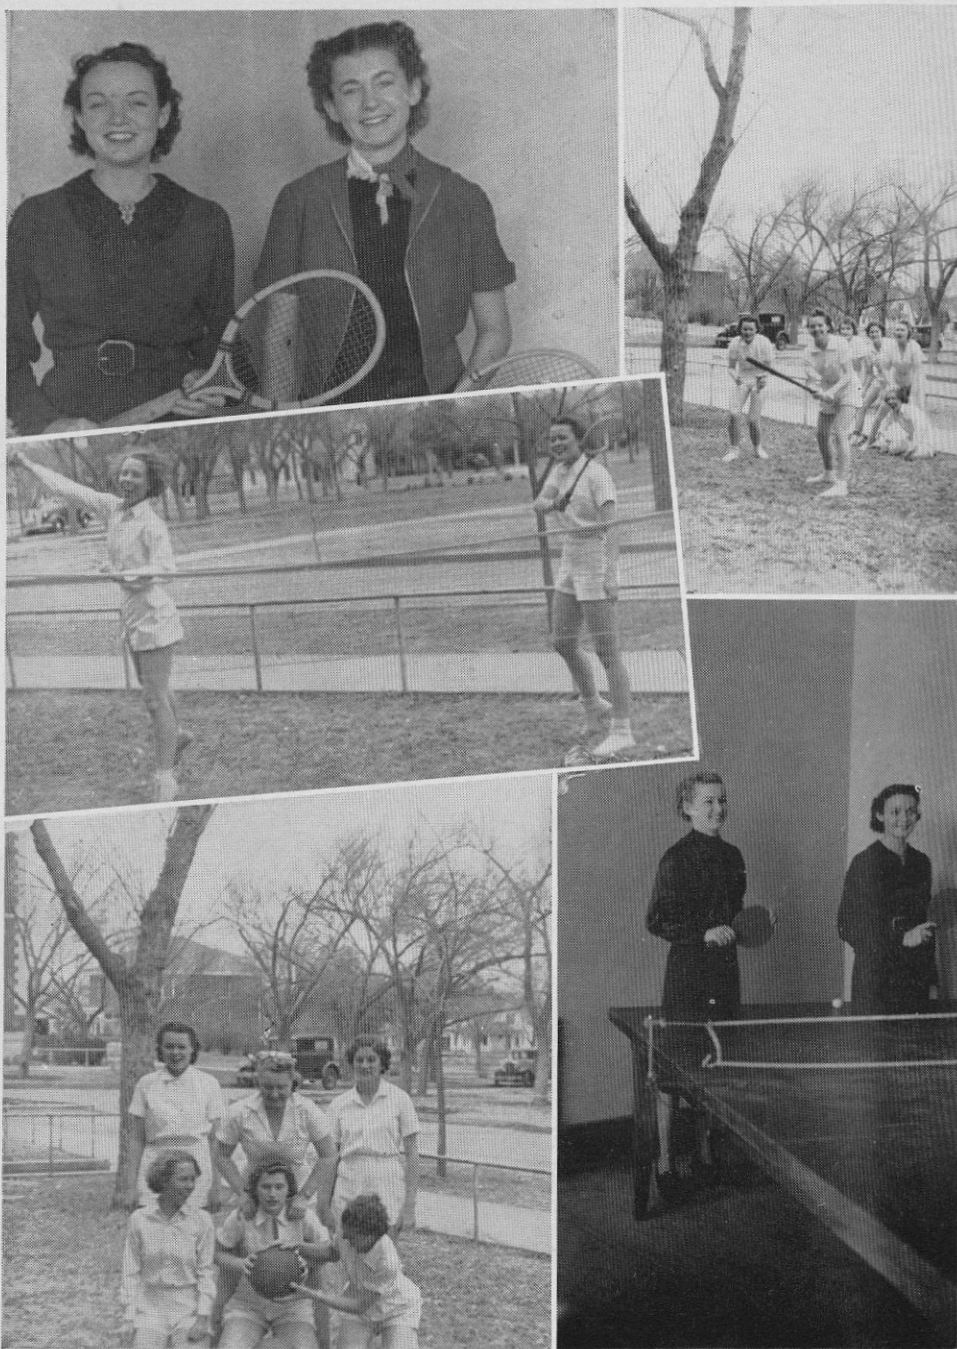

Re-organizing at the beginning of the fall term of this year, the lettermen have proved to the student body that this club has the most rigid entrance rules of any club on the campus, as it is necessary to letter in some sport in order to become a member.

The "N" Club's major social function of the year is known as the Ranger Round-up, which usually includes a banquet followed by a dance.

The first year letterman receives a jacket as an award. At the close of the individual's eligibility, he has the choice of either a blanket or a jacket with service stripes.

Two years ago the women of Northwestern, inspired by the comradeship and friendliness they had experienced in participating in sports together, began to feel a need for a more organized program, and as a result thirty-eight women met and organized the Women's Athletic Association of Northwestern. The organization has grown and developed until it is recognized as one of the outstanding groups on the campus.

Today it is affiliated with the Women's Division of the National Athletic Federation. The Women's Athletic Association has for its goal the giving to each young woman in college an opportunity to form good habits of recreation and wise use of leisure time.

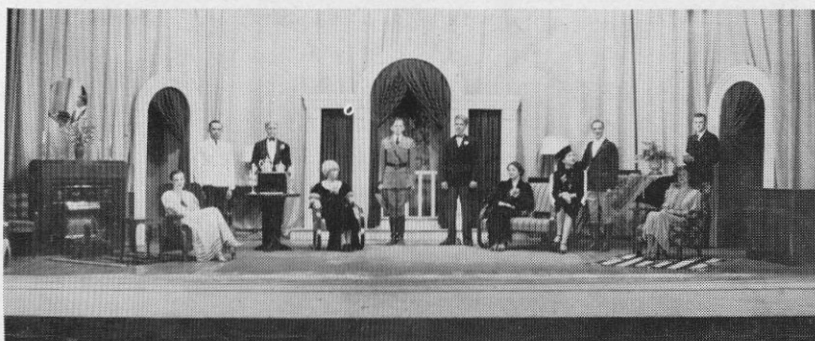

During the year of 1937-38 the organization sponsored the following intramurals: Team Sports:—soccer, basketball, tenikoit, volleyball, and baseball. Dual activities:—tennis, badminton, table tennis, shuffle-board, quoitennis, horseshoe, handball, and archery. Awards of pins and sweaters go each year to members active in sports.

Recognition is made of hiking, campcraft, stunts, rhythm, officiating, and such leisure time activities as horseback riding, golf, skating, bicycling, and swimming.

At Christmas time and near St. Patrick's day the gym was the scene of gayety as college students participated in folk games led by W. A. A. girls. The money from the Folk Parties went toward financing the Play Day for girls in high school held on Northwestern's campus, April 30.

There's a bit of drama about all of us—some more and some less. Shakespeare was writing more than poetry when he said, "All the world's a stage, and the people in it are merely actors." That's philosophy.

But there are those who have accentuated "playboy" instincts and must give vent to their feelings in ways more dramatic than ordinary existence. These are the people in Little Theatre. It's not that actors live in a world of make-believe, but that they desire to enrich the drama of their own lives with the drama of a whole world that has lived a thousand times longer than they have. Theirs is the experience of the centuries.

But, there's something of the commonplace about even such a "playhouse" as this. There are long hours of gruelling rehearsal, there are frantic searches for "props", there are the lights, the sound effects, the stage setting, the decorations, the advertising, the ticket sales, and a thousand and one other things to see about. It's just one big round of getting things together—and keeping them there.

No, it's not Utopia. It's not even pleasant—at times, but it's life—and it's fun, so we enjoy it. We hate to see the last curtain as much as you do.

Alpha Psi Omega is the honorary dramatic fraternity at Northwestern. It has the purpose of encouraging and promoting the highest standards of dramatic art. Membership gives one professional distinction, particularly as a teacher of dramatic art. Members of Little Theatre who meet the requirements of the Grand Cast are eligible for membership. Each quarter, professional meetings are held. The group sponsored the production of "Little Women" on July 22, 1937.

The national organization was founded August 12, 1925 in Fairmont State College, Fairmont, W. Va. There are 150 active casts at the present time. Gamma Rho Cast was established at Northwestern May 4, 1931.

The Cast Director is Edna Donley; the Business Manager, Durward Borden; and the Faculty Director, Almo Lois Rodgers.

Front Row—Hamilton, Card, Fulmer, Henricks, Huguley, Coach O. W. Rush.

Under the direction of Professor O. W. Rush, a full program of forensic activity is provided for those who are qualified and interested in this particular field. For the past eight or nine years Northwestern has sent representatives to practically all of the major tournaments in this section of the country.

The National Debate question for this year was, "Resolved, that the National Labor Relations Board should be empowered to enforce arbitration of all Industrial disputes." In addition to preparing themselves to debate both sides of this proposition, the squad has done active work in discussions before civic clubs, organizations, and various groups in the community.

Forensics, which includes debate, oratory, and extemporaneous speaking, is the only form of intercollegiate academic competition in which Northwestern participates. A glance at the trophy cases in Jesse Dunn hall gives some evidence as to the extent and success of this competition.

Pi Kappa Delta, the largest national honorary forensic fraternity in the United States, is composed of college students who have done outstanding work in intercollegiate debate, oratory, or extemporaneous speaking. Organized in 1913, the fraternity now contains over 10,000 members.

The Delta Chapter, which was organized at N. S. T. C. in 1922 has been quite active in forensic activities. During the past season Howard Harpham placed first in extemporaneous speaking at the Chickasha tournament. He and his colleague, Wayne Quinlan placed third in debate at the same contest. J. D. Foliart and John Smith were winners of third place in the Durant tournament.

The National Convention of Pi Kappa Delta is held every two years. This year's convention was held at Topeka, Kansas, April 17-22. In connection with the debate tournament in which Wayne Quinlan and Howard Harpham participated, there was held the First National Student Congress to which Ira W. Painton was sent as one of the three Senators from Oklahoma, with John Smith serving as a member of the House of Representatives.

O. W. Rush, debate coach and sponsor of the Delta Chapter, is Governor of the Oklahoma Province.

We do not say that the 1938 RANGER is the creation of a genius; possibly it is not the work of an artist; and we doubt if it is the best book that has ever been produced. But we are quite positive that it is good.

Regardless of the merits—or defects—of this book, the staff is mighty proud of it. We have had the pleasure of reviving a production that has been dormant for seven years. With the exception of the magazine annual which was published last year, the RANGER has not appeared since 1931.

It is our sincere hope that, after leafing through the present book, you may conscientiously say, "Not resurrected. Reborn."

The Publications Board was created by the Student Council for the specific purpose of supervising the production of the 1938 Ranger, and thereafter to serve as a mediate between faculty and students in undertaking all-school publications. That it has performed its work creditably, both in the selection of the staff of the present annual and in the setting of satisfactory precedents to serve as guides for future staffs, is attested by the quality of this book. Of course it has been the intention of the Board in re-creating the annual to contribute significantly to the vitality of our college life, and to stimulate the expression of that life in constructive enterprise.

The Northwestern News, edited and managed by undergraduates, under the direction of a faculty adviser, completes its second year this spring as a "weekly," rather than an "occasional bi-monthly," of former years.

This dual control makes it the official voice of Northwestern, sounding the opinions of students and faculty.

Its purpose, besides being a journal of campus activities, is to represent an accurate cross-section of college life which will be preserved permanently.

The campus news sheet, which is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press won a First Class All-American Honor Rating last spring.

A Cappella Choir

The A Capella Choir was organized in 1928 by E. B. L. Hardy, the present conductor, being the earliest collegiate organization of its kind in Oklahoma. Now, in its tenth season, the Choir has gained recognition as one of the finest singing groups of the entire Southwest.

Each year, the Choir makes an extended tour, as well as performing locally and in nearby communities. Last season the Choir toured the Southwest visiting Amarillo, and Lubbock, Texas, and Roswell and the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico. The 1938 tour included Buffalo, Guymon, Goodwell, and Boise City in Northwestern Oklahoma; Lamar, Holly, Rocky Ford, Canon City, and the Royal Gorge in Colorado; Garden City and Plains, Kansas.

The Choir consists of sixty voices. Its repertoire includes selections from early church and Russian liturgical music, as well as Negro spirituals and modern English and American sacred and secular part songs.

Instrumental Music

ORCHESTRA

The Northwestern Symphony orchestra was organized in 1936 under the direction of W. F. Deusinger. A large increase in the enrollment was shown this year, a manifestation of the increased interest in the musical organizations. A large number of new instruments were purchased by the college to be used by students who had no instruments of their own.

A library of works by classic and modern composers is at the disposal of the orchestra, and the group looks forward to continued growth and finer musicianship next year.

THE BAND

The Northwestern Ranger Band has been outstanding this year both as a concert and marching band. Single concert engagements were filled in cities over northwest Oklahoma and parts of Kansas.

The highlight of all engagements was the benefit concert, September 30, when the group appeared for the first time in their new West Point uniforms.

The Northwestern Ranger band offers N. S. T. C. students a great opportunity for study and appreciation of good music and provides an active program of practical experience and training.

Early in the year of 1936 Delta Eta Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi was established at Northwestern. Kappa Delta Pi is an Honor Society in Education with one hundred fifteen institutional and three alumni chapters widely scattered over the United States. It has a national biennial convocation which was held this year in Atlantic City, New Jersey. Miss Jean Holland represented Delta Eta Chapter.

Members are selected from the junior and senior classes in the college, the fifteen per cent ranking highest in scholarship being eligible.

The society has had the effect of stimulating efforts in scholarship and has spent a very profitable year, meeting once a month with programs consisting of discussions on foreign relations, government—past and present, book reviews, and similar topics.

International Relations Club

The International Relations club at Northwestern was organized in the spring of 1936 by a group of students interested in international affairs, with Dr. F. K. Wadley as faculty adviser. Its purpose is to promote discussion and understanding of the problems which must be solved before a peaceful society can be attained.

The Northwestern club is a branch of the national organization under the auspices of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace which supplies books for the I. R. C. library and sends prominent speakers to the Regional conferences. It meets bi-monthly for informal programs in which student and visiting speakers and members of the club discuss world problems.

"Pennies? Any odd pennies?"

No—it's not a blind beggar—only a Zipper pledge working her way up to membership.

The Zippers, exclusive girls' club, was organized in 1933 for the purpose of increasing pep and school spirit on the campus of Northwestern. In addition to attending all home contests in basketball, football and baseball, the Zippers made trips to Southwestern at Weatherford and to Central at Edmond this year.

Not only did the girls attend the athletic contests, but they acted as hostesses, ushers, and guides at Homecoming and Founders' Day, and carried banners for visiting bands in the Homecoming Parade.

. . . . and may that red and black jacket, enhancing the charms of a beautiful co-ed, ever be the symbols of spirit, pep, dependability,—and plenty of zip.

WRANGLERS

WRANGLER? OKE, DEFINE.

Prof: Define Wrangler in 99 words with only three periods.

Front Row: Uh-er-primarily, the aim of the approximate thirty Wranglers is to emit sounds which might be classified in the category of stimuli to stir sportsmen into action and carry them to greater physical accomplishments.

A Wrangler must inevitably be a rugged individual, else he could not endure the orientation and initiation processes, the major part of which is made up of a series of direct blows, of specified paddle intensity, placed swiftly and scorchingly upon the nether extremity of the subject—the subject of course forming an enjoyable acute angle by grasping both ankles firmly.

Concretely, the Wrangler is a rough, swaggering fellow, but there are times when he exhibits traits which might be ruled as admirable. He often serves as an official during campus celebrations and he is always on hand for sports contests.

Finally, he sponsors an annual spring dance and it is then that he stands at the top of the social ladder, swaggering and nonchalant in evening apparel.

Middle Row: Yea, Prof., this hop is held each spring and about forty or fifty of 'em get the best lookin' fems on the campus and truck over in Varsity hall. But the day following, he is back into that comfortable red jacket—the same swaggering, wrangling individual who leads the life of a pep clubber and—enjoys it.

The Drum and Bugle Corps was organized by Professor P. C. Conn in the summer of 1936 and made its first official appearance in the Homecoming parade of that year. Since that time it has been consistently active on the Northwestern campus.

This organization, which is now under the direction of Mr. J. T. Lavin, provides active participation and drill for college girls who are interested in this particular phase of student life.

..... And it's an active bunch of girls. Most any time of the day—or night—one is apt to hear a rat-a-tat-boom—boom, with a few bugle toots thrown in for good measure. It comes from over somewhere in the vicinity of the gym.

Of course, to add a bit of spice, there are parties, Tag Days, and trips around all over the country. Wichita, Enid, Cherokee, Mooreland, and numerous other towns have received visits from the Corps.

A nice bunch of girls—learning a lot—and having a swell time.

N. S. N. Debating Club

In 1907 a small group of young men formed an organization for the purpose of training themselves in the art of debating, public speaking, and parliamentary law. Soon the name of N. S. N. Debating Club became known in collegiate circles throughout Oklahoma and in neighboring states.

In recent years the interest of the club in intercollegiate debating has been lessened by the organization of a college debate squad, to which most of the members of the club belong. The major purpose of the club has now become the discussion of public questions and the encouragement of public speaking among members of the student body.

One of the major ways by which student interest in speech work is promoted is an annual Freshman Oratorical contest, in which any male Freshman may compete. Competition in the contest this year was keen, with final honors going to Victor Capper, Donald Harvey and Lewis Cleveland.

Pi Kappa Sigma has the distinction of being the oldest national sorority on the campus at Northwestern State Teachers College. It had its origin at Ypsilanti, Michigan in 1894. Beta chapter was installed at Northwestern in 1898.

The aims of Pi Kappa Sigma through the many years of its existence have been mutual helpfulness and the betterment of young womanhood. Each year the desire for high ideals, scholarship and service has grown stronger.

The alumnae of the sorority who are holding responsible positions over the state show that the ideals of the sorority are strong enough to remain with the girls after graduation.

Delta Sigma Epsilon was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in 1914, and in 1916 Delta chapter, which had formerly been the Shakespeare Club, was founded at Northwestern.

Delta chapter annually sponsors a full program of activities, including the observance of Founders' Day and Mothers' Day, a Christmas Party, and a birthday party honoring the establishment of the chapter, as well as publishing each fall the Student Directory. The Deltas also sponsored one of the best received chapel programs of the year in "The Pot Boils", a one act comedy.

As an encouragement to thorough scholarship among its members, the Delta chapter annually awards a loving cup to the girl having the highest scholastic ranking. This year Mildred Simon was presented this trophy for the second time.

The next national Conclave of the chapters of Delta Sigma Epsilon which will be held in Cincinnati in 1939 celebrates the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization. At each Conclave the most efficient chapter is awarded the See loving cup, which comes to belong to the chapter winning it three successive times. The Delta chapter was winner of this award at the last Conclave.

The N. S. T. C. Chapter of Future Homemakers of Oklahoma was organized September 14, 1937. This organization, which is open to all girls who are interested in Home Economics, numbered forty members during 1938. The club is affiliated with the State and National Home Economics Association.

The theme chosen for the year was "The Right Thing To Do", and many interesting and worthwhile programs built around this theme were presented. These programs consisted of travel talks, demonstrations, illustrated lectures, educational harangues, musical numbers and readings.

Club activities included a tea for freshman girls, a tea in honor of Home Economics teachers at the district teachers meeting, a Christmas dinner, and a May Day breakfast in honor of the senior members of the organization.

Thirteen members and one adviser of the club attended the Second Annual State Meeting of the Future Homemakers of Oklahoma at Oklahoma City on Saturday, March 19, 1938.

The McDowell Music Club

The MacDowell Music Club was organized in 1930 by Mrs. Lois Binkley. It is now composed of the piano students of Mrs. Margery Smith-Youngblood.

The purpose of this club, which is named after the great American composer, is to promote the program of good music in the school and the community; to acquaint its membership with the less known phases of music; and to give the opportunity to perform for others at frequent intervals.

THE CREED

"For the common things of every day,
God gave us speech in a common way;
For the deeper things men think and feel,
He gave the poets words to reveal;
But for the higher things which words can't reach,
He gave us Music, the soul's own speech."

Among the many organizations that have helped to make school life at Northwestern pleasant and worth-while is the Young Women's Christian Association. While all have their distinct phases of work, it is the Y. W. C. A. which upholds the Christian standards among the girls of the school.

The purpose of the association is "To build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians."

The spiritual interests are cared for by the weekly meetings where interesting and helpful programs and lectures by competent persons aid in spiritual growth of the members. The social welfare is provided for by social gatherings and every day effort at true sociability.

"We hope in the future to make the Y. W. C. A. on our campus a common meeting ground where all the girls of the college can meet together and work for a common good. We want to study the problems of all girls in general, and learn to adjust ourselves to every type. We, the Y. W. C. A. girls of Northwestern, pledge ourselves to a greater service for our college and for humanity."

The League of Young Democrats

The college chapter of the Oklahoma League of Young Democrats was organized in 1936, with Paul Cummings as its first president. In the same year the late Harden Ray, N. S. T. C. alumnus, was elected to the State Presidency.

The 1937 election was held in January of that year with Wayne Quinlan being elected president; Violet Divine, vice-president, and Helen Preston, secretary-treasurer.

In the 1938 election, Wayne Quinlan was re-elected president; Juanita McClafin was elected vice-president, and Helen Preston, secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of the organization is to foster student interest in government and political science. This is done by group discussion and the securing of outside speakers from time to time to address the organization.

In addition to this function the organization, which is consistently one of the largest on the campus, carries on an active social program throughout the year.

N. S. T. C. always has a goodly number of representatives at all state and district conventions of the League. Before many years some of the members of the club will be seen climbing the political ladder to success—we hope.

Horace Mann Training School

THEY'LL SOON BE THERE

The Demonstration School

The college demonstration school affords the best teacher training facilities to be found in Oklahoma. The school has been organized with two major objectives in view. The first is to give children the most progressive and ideal educational opportunity that is to be had. The second is to give college students being trained to teach, an opportunity to make needed adjustments before entering the teaching field.

Classes in Band, Public Speaking, Social Studies, and Physical Education have for one of their purposes the furnishing of an opportunity for making social adjustments. Free activity is invoked. Pupils are encouraged to express themselves.

Functioning as a teacher training unit the demonstration school proposes to present a normal, wholesome teaching situation. Progressive methods and live subject matter in keeping with real life experience is emphasized. Thorough preparation, careful planning and good classroom management is stressed.

The demonstration school is housed in the new "Horace Mann" building which was completed the latter half of the school year 1936-37. It is one of the most up-to-date and adequately equipped buildings that can be found in the Southwest.

Long, Long Ago

An old man rose from the table and as his mate began to rattle the dishes he turned toward his den to stretch himself in the big leather chair before the fireplace. He stroked the head of his old bird dog as he scanned the evening headlines and then started searching through the pockets of his jacket for the the cherry-stemmed Meerchaum pipe.

Slowly the old Dean looked from table to chair, and from smoking stand to mantle. Ah, there it was—on the mantle. Almost nimbly he reached for the pipe, but he faltered a bit and a book tumbled to the floor.

After the pipe was lighted and smoke curled lazily toward the ceiling, he picked up the book which had fallen from its shelf and glanced at the cover. Although scratched and torn he could still make out the title, "R-A-N-G-E-R 1938".

Twenty-two years. By gum, that was a long time ago.

The old fellow leaned back in his chair and regarded the annual of '38 closely. As he dreamed of students, of classes and friends, his wife came into the room and, glancing over his shoulder, she too read the title. Seating herself on the arm of his chair, they turned the yellowed pages together.

Now turning, now hesitating—they reminisced. They grew sad or laughed as the relived Northwestern's 1938, happily recalling familiar faces of students and faculty members.

As the last page was turned the old Dean shook the ashes out of his pipe and exclaimed, "Ma, it's not so bad getting old when you've got something like this to help you remember away back when—why, even Mr. Ward got around without a cane in those days."

BREAD AND BUTTER

Three students with books in arm chatted busily as they left the bordering sidewalk and turned between the big brick corner posts and started for classes on yon side of Herod Hall's front door.

There not being room for three people to pass on one side of the tall lamp post stationed in the middle of the walk, one student was forced to part from the other two and walk on the opposite side—muttering as they passed the post, "Bread and Butter."

"Ain't people funny?"

"They say Bill always keeps his word."
"He has to. No one else will take it."

At Last

Of all words in the English language the most maligned is the word "line". When we line up all the implications it is really quite a line.

For instance: The Wranglers and Zippers, as well as some of our athletes, are majoring in "sidelines". Practically every girl on the campus is taking a course in "waistlines". (It is reported that some of the fellows are takiing this by correspondence and doing their homework on front porches or parked cars—after sundown). Prof. Rush, Dean Percefull, and Prof. Bush, although they do not anticipate a plumbing career, have worked out advanced degrees in "pipe" lines. Cooper West, Cecil Robison, and some of the other "ball and chainers" have discovered that the little woman is taking a full course in the "line" of clothes.

But here's the real point. Regardless of interests, desires, likes, or dislikes, an Annual Editor can concern himself with only one line—the deadline. It hounds him day and night. Like a shadow it hovers over him as he eats, sleeps, walks, or talks. It's apt to goad him in the back just in the middle of—most anything. It's a slave driver, it's tough, it's stubborn, it's unflinching, and it's immovable—but we beat it, by Cracky. Here's the book.

So, to the Editor of the '39 RANGER. "Beware! The 'deadline' will get you if you don't watch out."

—JOHN W. V. SMITH

LEADERSHIP

Within every industry there is usually one concern that stands head and shoulders above competitors.

It is not through some stroke of luck or fortunate star that leadership within a particular sphere is accomplished but rather through specialized training, experience, and a constant vigilance toward service, quality of the product, and an honest desire to serve.

For nearly three decades the SOUTHWESTERN imprint in a yearbook has been the mark of quality... a guarantee of a helpful experienced service — of fine printing plates produced by skilled artisans.

We are proud of our association with this year's staff and pledge our best to staffs of the future.
